Manchester City of Literature

Oh no, the magic book has taken me inside! I need to find a way out of here!

...if you want to know how I can get out, then keep reading...

When I got inside I saw a kind girl. I asked her

“What is your name? My name is Chloe and I am stuck inside this dangerous book!” I said.

“Oh hi Chloe! My name is Jinna! And this book is so dangerous, if you want to get out you need to find the key! No body has taken the key before!” Said Jinna loudly to me!

“ If I take the key first, then will I be the best then?” I asked her.

“Yes but don’t be so happy just yet, because of the...”

Take a look

Take a look

I am writing a book,
When I first held my pen
My hands shook.

You need a key

For entering the library, you need a key
I am reading a book about seas
The library has lots of rainbows
The ideas about my book flow
While I was reading, I saw a bee

Poem 1 (haiku)

There are dragon books
There are monster and dog books
I dislike princess books

Poem 2

Science fiction equals amazing
It isn't that hard
If you see one you have to stop lazing
And start reading like a guard

I went for a look
For a book
That I took
About a really tall cook
Or an ugly duck
Maybe a pirate with a hook
Or a hockey player and a puck
The chess piece, a rook
This cake that smelt yuck
A scary ending that left me shook
A pot of gold that I'd find with some luck
Perhaps a pretty pink flower
I could pluck
A really embarrassing moment that makes me go
Oh shucks
Somewhere to hide in every cranny and nook
Or a super fun place where kids run amuck
Maybe a soft blue brook
An evil crook
A super loud truck
An ice cream to suck
A chicken in the morning
That goes cluck cluck
A really comfy bed with a blanket I tuck
An evil monster that shook...
.... Or maybe I'll just watch TV.
